The University of Alabama
School of Law Career Services
Classes of 1995-1996
On behalf of the Law Faculty, I am proud to present to you our second- and third-year students. This Placement Guide for Employers provides information to facilitate your hiring from the Classes of 1995 and 1996. We appreciate the fact that many employers have complimented this Guide as being valuable to them; some new formatting hopefully will make this Guide even better. Thank you for considering our students for employment.

I am proud of our students and hope you agree with me that they are first-rate. Our competitive admissions process rigorously seeks the most qualified applicants, with different backgrounds, perspectives, and career goals. The admittees’ average LSAT is in approximately the top 80 percentile nationwide, and their undergraduate GPA averages at least a B+. Though our students have attended many different undergraduate institutions, many Alabamians and Southeasterners choose to come home to the state’s only public law school for their legal education. Approximately 35 percent of the student body is female and 12 percent minority group members. We try to instill professional pride in our students, promoting the idea that the law is a profession and not simply a business.

Our Law School has never been stronger overall. In addition to our great student body, we have an outstanding Faculty. The Faculty’s resourcefulness, dedication, and expertise facilitates the fine education that our students receive. We also are committed to having a premier Law Library. Finally, our curriculum — from traditional and policy offerings, to advocacy, skills, and clinical classes — is designed to prepare students well for any career path they choose.

Our Career Services Office can help you in several different ways, as described in the following pages. We stand ready to serve your employment needs and appreciate your support for and consideration of our law students.

Very truly yours,

Ken Randall
Dean and
McMillan Professor of Law
The Career Services Office is the publisher of this guide offered to employers who hold on-campus interviews, and to recruiting conference participants, judicial offices in Alabama, and other employers who request copies. The Career Services Office also serves legal employers with three convenient, efficient programs to match hiring needs with appropriately skilled and motivated lawyers trained at the University. New and experienced lawyers participate, seeking employment in various locales with law firms of all sizes and specializations; with corporations and businesses; with public-interest groups and government agencies; and as federal- and state-court judicial clerks.

1. On-Campus Interviewing. Employers meet a number of qualified candidates on one day, in one location. The Law School’s comfortable facilities are available for interviews Monday through Saturday. Resumes are mailed to the employer in advance; the employer selects the interviewees and notifies the Career Services Office, which schedules the meetings.

2. Resume Forwarding. Employers who call the Career Services Office can obtain resumes from a group of law students and alumni, for interviews at the employer’s convenience. Positions can be announced to students and graduates through postings and publications. Submitted resumes can be forwarded by the Law School to the employer in one mailing, or applicants can be told to contact the employer directly.

3. Alumni Network. Employers seeking experienced attorneys have a link through the Career Services Office to a broad group of practicing professionals: our alumni. The office keeps a registry of alumni seeking to relocate and announces positions in regular and special alumni bulletins.

Employers also may be interested in larger “job fairs” in which the UA School of Law participates. Five such regional and national fairs take place annually.

Southeastern Law Placement Consortium
- Held in Atlanta each October, SELPC includes 10 Southeastern law schools and employers from around the nation
- Largest and most successful cooperative, off-campus interviewing program for law firms

Mid-South Law Placement Consortium
- Held in Nashville each spring
- Serves law firms in Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee, and parts of Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina

Southeastern Law Schools Minority Job Fair
- Held in Atlanta each August for 38 participating law schools
- Designed for black, Hispanic, and other minority law students interested in interviewing with employers from around the nation
Patent Law Interview Program
• Held in Chicago each August
• Enables patent law employers to interview students who meet patent bar examination requirements
• Opportunity for students to interview with employers who are interested in them

National Public Interest Career Fair
• Held in Washington, D.C., each fall
• Provides students and alumni a unique opportunity to collect information and to interview with representatives of government agencies, legal-services offices, civil rights organizations, consumer protection groups, environmental advocacy groups, and others

The Career Services Office provides students with opportunities throughout the year to meet legal employers and improve their employment prospects. These range from the services and events outlined above to various resume writing, job search, and interviewing skills programs. Offerings include guest speakers, panel discussions, mock interviews, and a shadow program. In addition, the Career Services Office maintains a library of directories and other employment guides, “how-to” books, and WestLaw and Lexis terminals.

1993-94 Jessup International Law Moot Court Team: (L-R) Joseph B. Mays, Jr., ’78, presents the Bradley, Arant, Rose & White Award to John R. Gilliland, ’94; Paige M. Carpenter, ’94; Sonya L. Powell, ’94, Manager; David M. Overstreet, ’94; Christa L. Hayes, ’94; Frank Caprio, ’90, Bradley, Arant, Rose & White, Team Adviser; Jamie D. Manasco, ’94; Dean Ken Randall, Faculty Adviser.

On behalf of the Law School, Dean Ken Randall accepts the Adams & Reese Jessup Moot Court Award from Victor H. Lott, Jr., ’75.

Nondiscrimination Policy

The University of Alabama School of Law is committed to a policy of nondiscrimination based on sex, race, color, national origin, religion, age, physical disability, or sexual orientation. Only employers in agreement with this policy may use services of the Law School. By using the services, employers assure the Law School that they observe this nondiscrimination policy or will notify the Career Services Office otherwise. The University of Alabama is an equal employment, equal educational opportunity institution.
Grading and Ranking Practices

Students entering The University of Alabama School of Law are assigned to one of two sections. They are ranked within their section for the first five semesters of the six-semester curriculum. During the final semester, each student’s rank is determined both within the section and overall in the class.

The law faculty of The University of Alabama in 1990 adopted the following hortatory norms and ranges governing the distribution of grades (recommendatory only).

Profile of the Class of 1996

The University of Alabama School of Law typically awards degrees to 160–180 graduates each year. During the 1993–94 academic year, 554 students were enrolled full-time. More than 1,200 applications were received for the 1993–94 entering class (the Class of 1996), representing eight states and 54 collegiate institutions.

Further statistics on the Class of 1996:
- LSAT mean score of 161 (80th+ percentile)
- Mean undergraduate GPA of 3.6
- About 41% women
- About 18% minority

Employment Profile of the Class of 1993

A recent survey of the 1993 UA Law School graduates showed that more than 93% of the 169 class members were known to have secured employment within six months of receiving their degrees, most of them working within Alabama. The number of our graduates accepting employment with private practices had grown in 1993, up to 55% from 53% in 1992. The number accepting judicial clerkships also rose, from about 16% in 1992 to 18% in 1993. The survey also revealed a 2% rise in the number accepting government jobs. Business/industry attracted approximately 2.5% more students in 1993 than in 1992, and there was a 2% decrease in 1993 of students pursuing advanced degrees.

The following charts present a summary of the types of employment (or other pursuits), geographic locations, and salary ranges reported by the surveyed graduates.

Law Journals and Moot Court Teams

Second- and third-year students in The University of Alabama School of Law gain experience in positions on the editorial staffs of several legal publications. The Law School's Trial Advocacy and Appellate Advocacy Program offers team members yet another means of enhancing legal skills.

Alabama Law Review
- Scholarly legal periodical published three times annually
- Top 10% of beginning second-year students automatically eligible
- Remaining top 50% of beginning second-year students may compete for positions

The Journal of the Legal Profession
- First U.S. periodical dedicated to exploring ethical issues and problems confronting the legal profession
- Beginning second-year students or more advanced students in the top 25% of their classes compete for editorial board positions

Law and Psychology Review
- One of the first periodicals to approach the discipline of law from a behavioral-sciences perspective
- Published once annually featuring both student-researched and written articles and submissions from legal scholars and psychologists of note

The American Journal of Tax Policy
- Published twice annually; contains articles by tax lawyers and professors on tax policy issues

- Sponsored by the American College of Tax Counsel
- Conducts a student writing contest each year

John A. Campbell Moot Court Competition
- Annual intramural event for second-year students named for Justice Campbell, a mid-19th-century member of the Alabama Bar and U.S. Supreme Court
- Twenty top competing third-year students selected to present the following year's moot court program

National Moot Court Team
- Competes in regional and national competitions involving issues in constitutional law and other federal law
- Third-year students demonstrating outstanding legal research, writing, and oral advocacy as selected from the Campbell Competition

Phillip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition Team
- Writes briefs and acts as oral advocates in hypothetical cases typifying those heard before the International Court of Justice
- Five outstanding third-year student advocates as selected from the Campbell Competition

Frederick Douglass Moot Court Competition Team
- Inter-law school appellate competition sponsored annually by the National Black Law Students Association
- Outstanding second- and third-year students selected to prepare cases involving constitutional and civil rights law

Trial Advocacy Program

The Trial Advocacy Program has gained regional and national recognition since it began in 1974.

- Students strive to master the five aspects of trial practice: law, procedure, ethics, tactics, and skills. They are taught the "why" of law, procedure, ethics, and tactics, in addition to the "how" of litigation skills and techniques.
- The University of Alabama presently participates in three nationally recognized trial advocacy competitions: The National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers (NACDL) Criminal Trial Competition; The National Trial Competition; and The National Student Trial Advocacy Competition (ATLA).
- Alabama teams regularly represent the school well in competitions. In 1990 our ATLA team won the National Trial Advocacy Competition. In 1994 our ATLA team won the regional competition and finished third in the national competition. Two of Alabama's NACDL teams have finished second in national competitions consisting of over 100 law school teams.

Alumni Affairs Office

The School of Law's Alumni Affairs Office serves some 5,000 graduates through work with the Farrar Law Society and Law School Alumni Association; distribution of alumni publications including the dean's annual report, the Capstone Lawyer; and alumni-related record keeping. The office also works for current and future law classes by orchestrating annual giving activities to benefit academic and other programs.

The Law School Alumni Association is comprised of graduates of The University of Alabama School of Law. The association hosts a luncheon meeting for alumni and friends during the annual meeting of the Alabama Bar. It also helps organize class reunions and other social events.
