On behalf of the Law Faculty, I am pleased to introduce our second- and third-year students to you. The information in this Placement Guide for Employers is provided to assist employers in making hiring decisions.

Students entering law school at The University of Alabama are bright and capable. Our admissions criteria are rigorous, and the admittees have impressive UGPAs and LSATs. However, we also consider other factors which indicate that a student will be successful in law school. You will see from the activities listed in the Guide that our students come to law school from different backgrounds and from a wide variety of academic, employment, and extracurricular experiences. Though our students have attended many undergraduate institutions, many Alabamians and Southerners choose to come home to the state's only public law school for their legal education. Approximately 85% of our students are Alabama residents. Approximately 40% of the student body are female, and 12% are minority group members.

We are confident that our students receive a quality legal education. Our curriculum — from traditional and policy offerings, to advocacy, skills, and clinical classes — is designed to prepare students well for any career path they choose. Our Faculty is committed to instilling a professional ethic in our students. It is resourceful, dedicated, and highly regarded. We encourage close professional contact between students and the Faculty, and you will see in the student-activity section the many ways in which students work with Faculty members outside the classroom.

We are proud of the recent accomplishments of our institution. During the past academic year, for example, the Law School has successfully recruited two distinguished teachers and scholars to fill two of our endowed chairs — David Epstein in the Tweedy Chair and Steven Hobbs in the Bevill Chair. The Alabama Law Review has been ranked in the top twenty-five of all law journals in the country. Scott Hughes has been appointed Director of the Law School Clinic. A new multimedia classroom is the cornerstone of our technology development. Our building projects include the construction of a new special collections room in the Law Library and the renovation of the Law School's front plaza. Our interviewing suite for employers is also being reconfigured this summer. Our Trial Advocacy Team, Frederick Douglass Moot Court Team, and Jessup International Law Moot Court Team all this past spring enjoyed great success in their regional competitions, and each advanced to the national competition level. Other instances of success abound.

Our Career Services Office can help employers in many ways. If you are considering the employment of new lawyers, we will be pleased to arrange on-campus interviews with our students. If you cannot visit campus, we will arrange to have resumes sent to you. To make arrangements, please contact the Career Services Office at Box 870382, Tuscaloosa, Alabama 35487, (205) 348-6479 (phone), (205) 348-0738 (FAX), or careers@law.ua.edu.

We are proud of our students and welcome this opportunity to tell you more about them.

The Career Services Office offers a variety of services to our students and alumni. One of the services that we offer is the publication of this guide, which is distributed to on-campus interviewers, job fair participants, Alabama judicial officers and other employers who request copies. The Career Services Office also offers employers programs such as “on-campus interviewing” and “resume forwarding” and will work with employers to help them list their job openings in our jobletter or to help them attend job fairs.

ON-CAMPUS INTERVIEWING. One of the easiest methods for employers to interview candidates for summer or for permanent employment is to come on campus and interview many candidates on one day. Our office will post a notice that an employer is coming on a certain date. Students or alumni who are interested in an interview will give their resume to us and we will then send those resumes to that employer to choose whom the employer wishes to interview. We will then post a list of the names of the students or alumni to be interviewed.

RESUME FORWARDING. This program is similar to on-campus interviewing except that employers interview their chosen candidates at their own offices. Our office can collect resumes and send them to employers, or employers can have the candidates mail their resumes directly to them.

JOBLETTER. Employers seeking to hire experienced attorneys call our office and we post a job notice in our jobletter, free of charge. The Career Services Office currently publishes the jobletter in two formats. The first format is offered through the Internet and is part of the Law School’s home page at www.law.ua.edu/placement. However, because the actual job listings are available only to alumni, a password is needed to obtain access to the listings. The jobletter is also available by mail for a subscription rate of $10.00 a year. Call or write our office if you want the Internet password, want your name to be placed on our jobletter mailing list, or wish to advertise a job in the jobletter.

Captain Walter Dukes
gave a presentation to students about practicing law as a Judge Advocate General in the Army.

JOB FAIRS. Employers may be interested in larger job fairs in which the Law School participates. The Law School participates in five regional or national fairs annually. If you want to take part in any of these job fairs, call or write our office.

Southeastern Law Placement Consortium. This job fair is held in Atlanta in the fall of each year. It is the oldest and most successful cooperative, off-campus interviewing program for law firms. SELPC offers employers nationwide the opportunity to conveniently recruit summer associates and entry-level attorneys from 12 southeastern law schools at one place.

Mid-South Law Placement Consortium. This job fair is held in Nashville each February. It serves law firms in Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee, and parts of Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina. Legal employers from the Southeast recruit students from eight southeastern schools for summer clerkships and permanent positions.

Southeastern Law Schools Minority Job Fair. This job fair is held each August for 38 participating law schools. It is designed for minority students interested in interviewing with employers from around the nation.

Patent Law Interview Program. This job fair is held in Chicago each August. Through this program patent law employers are able to interview students who meet patent bar examination requirements.
National Public Interest Career Fair.
This job fair is held in Washington, D.C., each fall. It provides students and alumni a unique opportunity to collect information and to interview with representatives of government agencies, legal-services offices, civil rights organizations, consumer protection groups, environmental advocacy groups, and others.

OTHER CAREER SERVICES PROGRAMS. The Career Services Offices also offers counseling, mock interviews, and resume writing workshops. In the last several years, our students have taken part in a shadow program which provides them the opportunity to spend a day with a chosen attorney and observe what a workday for that attorney may be like. This year Kimm Walton, author of Guerilla Tactics for Getting the Legal Job of Your Dreams, Regardless of Your Grades, Your School or Your Work Experience, spoke to the students, discussing creative approaches to the job search. Many alumni and other attorneys help our office during the year by leading discussions or giving presentations about various areas of legal employment. One very popular afternoon program that our office sponsored this year was the Career Options Day, during which nearly 20 lawyers were available to talk to students about their careers.

NONDISCRIMINATION POLICY. The University of Alabama School of Law is committed to a policy of nondiscrimination based on sex, race, color, national origin, religion, age, disability, or sexual orientation. Only employers in agreement with this policy may use the services of the Law School. By using the services, employers assure the Law School that they observe this nondiscrimination policy or will notify the Career Services Office otherwise. The University of Alabama is an equal employment, equal educational opportunity institution.

Grading and Ranking Practices

Students entering The University of Alabama School of Law are assigned to one of two sections. They are ranked within their section for the first five semesters of the six-semester curriculum. During the final semester, each student’s rank is determined both within the section and overall in the class.

The Law Faculty of The University of Alabama in 1990 adopted the following hortatory norms and ranges governing the distribution of grades (recommendatory only).

TRIAL ADVOCACY PROGRAM

The Trial Advocacy Program offers students another means of enhancing their legal skills. The program has gained regional and national recognition since it began in 1974. In the program, students strive to master the five aspects of trial practice: law, procedure, ethics, tactics, and skills.

The University of Alabama presently participates in three nationally recognized trial advocacy competitions: The National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers (NACDL) Criminal Trial Competition; The National Trial Competition; and The National Student Trial Advocacy Competition (ATLA).

Alabama teams regularly represent the school well in competitions. For example, the 1996-97 trial team won the Southeastern Regional Trial Competition and advanced to the third round in the national competition.

APPELLATE ADVOCACY PROGRAM

The Law School’s Appellate Advocacy Program offers students the means to enhance their appellate skills. During the spring semester, second-year students may choose to participate in the John A.

1996–97 Alabama Trial Advocacy Team
Ronald Gault and Carrie Watson won the Southeastern Regional Trial Competition. The team was coached by Professor Steve Emens (right).

Campbell Moot Court Competition. From this competition, twenty-four students are selected to be members of the next year’s John A. Campbell Moot Court Board. These students conduct the next year’s competitions and assist the Legal Writing Lecturers in the first-year Moot Court class.

Four students are selected from the Moot Court Board to be members of the National Moot Court Team. This team competes in Regional and National competitions involving constitutional and other federal law issues. Also, six students from the Moot Court Board are selected to be members of the Phillip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Team. These students write briefs and act as oral advocates in hypothetical cases typifying those heard before the International Court of Justice.

Our Moot Court teams traditionally do well in the Regional and National competitions. In the last 20 years, 10 teams have progressed to the national competition from the regional finals. Most recently the 1996-97 Jessup International Law Moot Court team won their regional competition and in 1994 and 1995 the Jessup Team won awards for submitting the best memorial (brief) in international competition.

The Frederick Douglass Moot Court Competition Team participates in an inter-law school appellate competition sponsored annually by the Black Law Students Association. Second- and third-year students are selected from an intra-law school competition. The 1996-97 team finished second in the regional competition held in Atlanta and advanced to the eighth round in the national competition in Las Vegas. One of the team members was named Best Oral Advocate in the national competition in 1996.
